Acknowledgements

We would like to express our deepest appreciation to all those who made it possible for us to complete this anthology. First of all this includes, of course, each contributor to this volume; without them, this collection would not have been possible. Our thanks go also to the entire academic staff and fellow students of the Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG) 1412 doctoral school on “Cultural Orientation and Social Structures in Southeastern Europe” in Jena for their inspiration and intellectual support. We offer our especial gratitude to Wolfgang Dahmen, Gabriella Schubert, Rafael Biermann, and Anton Sterbling, whose experience we profited from during the editing process. We would also like to express our appreciation for the crucial role played by Sandy Opitz, who helped us to overcome the hurdles of bureaucracy. Costas Canakis would like to gratefully acknowledge the support of the DFG for help with the article he co-wrote with Roswitha Kersten-Pejanić; this article is part of a project entitled “Spray-canned discourses: Investigating language and precarious citizenship in the linguistic landscape of Athens and Belgrade,” which was carried out in collaboration with Prof. Christian Voss at the Institute for Slavic Studies, Humboldt University, Berlin. Without the financial and infrastructural support of the DFG and the Amadeu Antonio Stiftung in Berlin, together with our publisher Harrassowitz from Wiesbaden, the publishing of this book would not have been possible. Last but not least we thank Julia L. McMillan for her professional editing and proofreading.
